Friday football fever reigns supreme

Traditions filled fall Fridays with all different kinds of excitement. Friday football fever reigned as the most important of these traditions. The nervousness of the team and enthusiasm of the hometown crowd made this day truly special.

The days began with everyone arriving at school dressed in traditional fashions. Cheerleaders wore their uniforms, the team put on blazers and ties, and even teachers got into the act wearing blue and gold and some even wearing plaid ties.

"You could tell it was Friday just arriving at school. The spirit of the past football teams filled the halls. It gave us a real sense of a winning tradition," stated Deanne Crayne, senior class president.

As the day went on, the school brimmed with excitement of the night's game. Teachers, students and team members discussed prospects of the game. As the day came to an end, students gathered for the pep assembly where the whole thing began with a cheer performed by the rally. Then it moved on to special announcements and the flag salute. After that, a skit poked fun at the opposing team and school. Then performances of class competitions and more cheers followed by dismissal closed the assembly.

At the game, students united with the general community for the two hour game.

"It's a night where the stadium is filled to capacity with everyone cheering Kelso's football team on to victory," commented Tracy Williamson, varsity rally member.

A local fan and former vice-principal, Tom Genette, said, "Community support is very much centered around the high school, so it's logical that the football team receives as much support as anyone else. We are very proud of all who are involved: the coaches, the team, cheerleaders, marching band and Kilties."

Specific groups involved in the games included cheerleaders, marching band, Kilties, Lassies and the Downtown Quarterbacks. The favorite cheers of the hometown crowd included "Rock Steady, Eddy" and "We Are, Kelso."

The team swarming around the field in a tight group chanting "We Are, Kelso" and "We don't like nobody," really pleased the crowd. Then they disappeared under the stadium.

After the home football games, a dance sponsored by the student body could be attended for the students who wished to attend.

The traditional spirit week, organized by Lassies, created a festive atmosphere for Friday's homecoming activities. Lassie members voted on and chose the five themes for each day of the week

Homecoming mums, sold during the week also enhanced the pageantry of the football game. Students and fans throughout the community showed their Scotie pride by wearing their mums to the game to watch the Hilanders triumph over the Hudson's Bay Eagles, 35-7

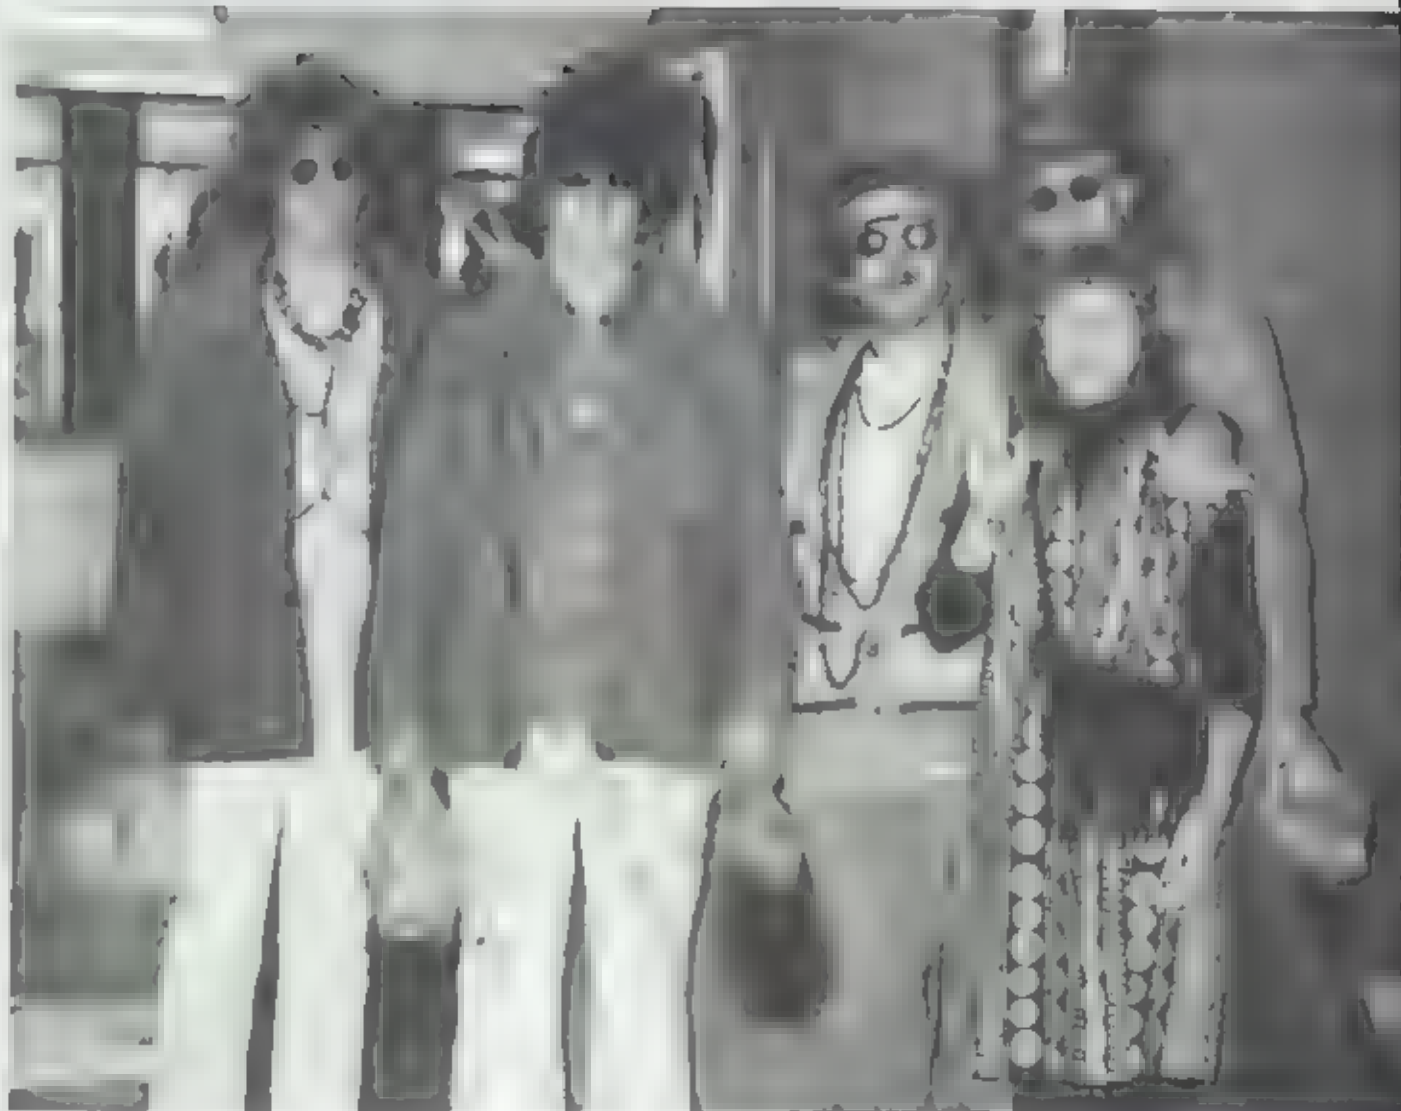

Spirit week had a "sunny" start on Monday when students wore their Hawaiian and beach clothes for "Tan Their Hide" day. Students in shorts and tanks roamed the halls in pursuit of sand and waves. Tuesday followed with "No Peace for the Eagles" as spirited students and staff dressed like flower children from the sixties era. Some hippies even carried signs to protest war and distributed pamphlets reading

"Peace is an inner strength." Orange hair, chains, and leather pants draped over the bodies of hard rockers marked Wednesday's "Rock 'em Scots" day while Thursday brought barefooted, leaf-crowned students roiled in Roman togas for "Wrap 'em Up" day. Friday's traditional homecoming day filled the halls with students in blue, gold and plaid showing their spirit and pride

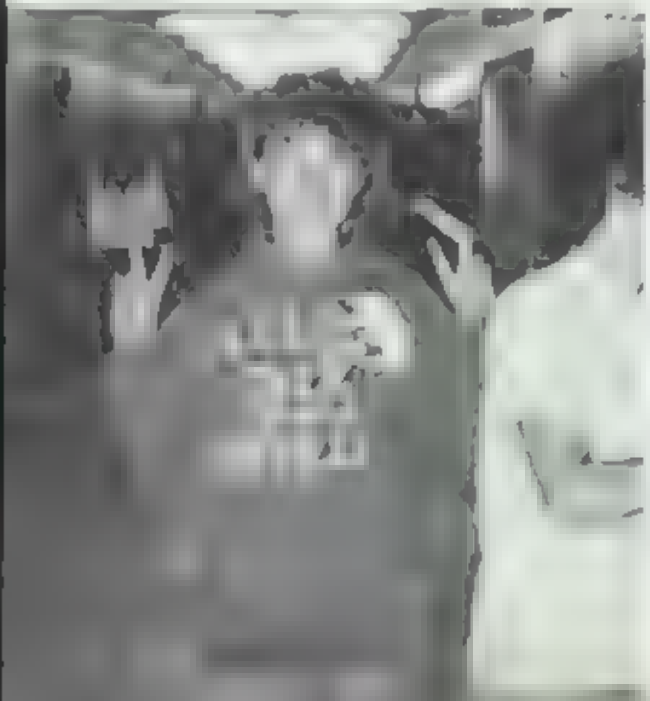

Spirit week added to homecoming and the entire football season by bringing students closer together and increasing student involvement

Amber Coburn reigns over homecoming

"I was stunned! It took awhile before it actually hit me that I won"

-Amber Coburn

"Homecoming is a big tradition at Keiso; I was glad to be a part of it."

-Bill Elliott

Lassies chose "Keiso Lights up the Night with Class" as their homecoming theme

They also nominated and selected escorts Bill Elliott, Eric Richards, Nick Ring, Anthony Rojo and Junior Spain. These five arrived at an afternoon pep assembly and introduced the five princesses to the student body which had elected them

Varsity cheerleaders performed the traditional hildand fling, the lights dimmed and the music began. One by one, each escort drew a name and paced the floor in search of his princess. They consisted of Makani Coila, Amber Coburn, Kim Wishard, DeAnne Crayne and Erin McGhee

Mrs. Eiana Carpenter and Mrs. Bev Laulainen, involved in homecoming since 1980, were pleased with the outcome. "The selection of girls was a good example of kids voting for kids. They all represented different personalities," commented Mrs. Carpenter

That evening at halftime Master of Ceremonies Joe Robbins introduced the princesses to the homecoming crowd as the chauffeurs drove them in convertibles

Many only dreamed of becoming homecoming queen. For Amber Coburn, this dream came true. After she opened the box and found the yellow rose, DeAnne Rubash presented her a bouquet of a dozen yellow roses, her escort Anthony placed the robe on her and 1986 homecoming queen Marci Faling, placed the crown on her head. Halftime ended and drivers chauffeured the princesses around the track and Queen Amber and King Rojo relaxed in a limousine

In addition to the victorious football game over the Eagles, an after-game dance gave old and new Keiso fans a chance for fun as they celebrated to the dances DJ, Destiny echoed from all the speakers, couples entered the colorful dance floor, shortly after casting ballots for the queen and court of their choices.

Bob Almos, the owner of Murl Art Studio, photographed couples so they could remember that special night. Snow-like material covered couples' feet, while they waited for a flash of the camera.

As always, sophomore officers worked to make it one of the special dances of the year. Committees formed early and students agreed on the theme, "Christmas Paradise." Decorating, refreshment and entertainment committees then worked their plans into the theme. Snowflakes, painted windows, brightly lit Christmas trees and a candy cane striped entry made a fantasy land out of the cafeteria. Holly and candles softly lit each table. Students gathered to enjoy refreshments, cookies and homemade fudge provided by sophomore parents. A disc jockey hosted the music that filled the air.

The traditional crowning took place toward the end of the Christmas dance. Many young girls waited excitedly to see who would be crowned. DeAnne Crayne, Junior princess last year, stood excitedly as she was crowned queen.

Back To Bedrock with the Bedrock Bop

'The theme was really original and the French Club took lots of time and effort to prepare for it you could tell.'

-Coby Bell

'It was great, my first experience in America where the girl pays for the guy!'

-Frederic Fonterosa

Things changed at Kelso High School on the night of March 11 when girls asked guys to a tolo and a night of dancing and great times. A potentially dangerous situation girls driving, turned out to be a blast of fun. The Kelso High School French Club, their advisor, Mrs. Cathy McAllister, and the tunes of Destiny rocked the high school — "Bedrock Bop '88

After school on Friday the French Club stayed and decorated to make the night special for all the couples. "Getting dressed up was one of the best parts of the tolo," said Karen Probst. The theme was a big hit in Kelso, and all of the couples made the trek to the fabric stores to find material and patterns. The winners of the night's costume contest were two foreign exchange students, Madeline Noble and Hein Ligvoet.

McDougal's and Scotty's cafe wasn't the same after the French Club decorating committee finished with it. Tammy Dismore, Cathy Higgins, Holly Norton, Darren Smalling, Grant Wishard and Julie Williamson put in hours of work, using big brown balloons, and tan, beige and dark brown streamers to carry out the theme.

The special night was captured on film by Bob Almos and all of the couples stood in front of the backdrop designed by Grant Wishard and French Club Advisor Mrs. Cathy McAllister. Everyone rated the tolo a successful event that would have shook the town of Bedrock.

Juniors create 'Midnight Masquerade'

'Better than last year's prom and decorations were better than expected.'

-Kim Wishard

'It went real well and decorations were great. It could have lasted longer.'

-Rene Mandrones

Disguising the walls of Kelso's gym, the decorating committee hung masks and twinkling stars which all revealed the theme Midnight Masquerade

Mr Larry Ledgerwood and juniors set up work parties and painted masks to sponsor this event in honor of the graduating class of '88. Nearly 250 couples who purchased tickets for $10 attended the prom.

The magic all began in Kelso's gym on April 30. At the edge of the dance floor, Destiny kept the night alive with their array of lights and hit songs.

Grabbing the center of attention Jason Soderman, junior class president announced the 1988 prom queen and king, Becky Carroll and Junior Spain. The remainder of the court included Kim Pleasant escorted by Jim Ackermann and Tiara Powell escorted by Jason Radcliffe as seniors. Juniors were Michelle Warne and Chrissy Reynolds who were escorted by Chris Jacobs and Darren Boswell. The sophomore couple was Bethany DeVries and Rene Mandrones.

Couples later took time out from the dance floor to glide over to the picture setting where Bob Almos of Murl Art took portraits under a midnight atmosphere.

Mall brings changes in the community

Remember the long Sundays of flipping television channels to decide hour after hour whether to watch Wild Kingdom, MTV, or classic Elvis movies? Remember forcing yourself to sleep in until 9 o'clock in the afternoon so that the day would seem to go by faster? Remember how you would have your head shoved in the refrigerator, eating food just to keep yourself occupied?

The Kelso's Three Rivers Mall changed the lives of many people whether it be their Sunday afternoons, their social gatherings or maybe their jobs. It offered people a place to shop, to eat, or just to "hang out."

The mall kept kids out of the Washington rain and out of trouble, gave them a safe place to meet their friends and offered items that they would normally have to drive to Portland to buy. It gave students opportunities to get jobs for money to save or to spend.

Many shops providing products for demanding shoppers included Bon Marche, J. C. Penney, Emporium, Jay Jacobs, JK Gill and Lerner's. The food port satisfied everyone's craving with varieties of food including pizza, fish and chips, oriental, cinnamon rolls, muffins and yogurt.

Having a mall in Kelso offered students a marketing class so they could learn how to go out in the real world, apply for, and get jobs.

Not only was the mall an immediate advantage by providing selection and access to major stores, but it also increased tax revenue for the city and kept money in the area instead of sending it to Portland where many citizens shopped previously.

What about Commerce? During the earlier days, teens had to beg mom to drive them over, waste tons of gas driving all around in search of a parking spot and could never find what they were looking for in one place. Only steps away, Three Rivers Mall provided necessities from birthday cards to clothes to food.

What does the future hold for the mall? A multi-screen theater, a superstore and a K Mart are all possibilities to enhance the main attraction at Kelso.

Varsity rally spreads school spirit

'It takes a lot of time but it was a great experience and I got to meet a lot of new people.'

- Nicole Knight

'Being on rally was a lot of hard work but was something I will always remember.'

- Kim Wishard

Advised by Mrs. Elana Carpenter, varsity rally consisted of six dedicated girls. The squad included Amber Coburn, Makani Coila, Nicole Knight, Erin McGhee, Tracy Williamson and Kim Wishard.

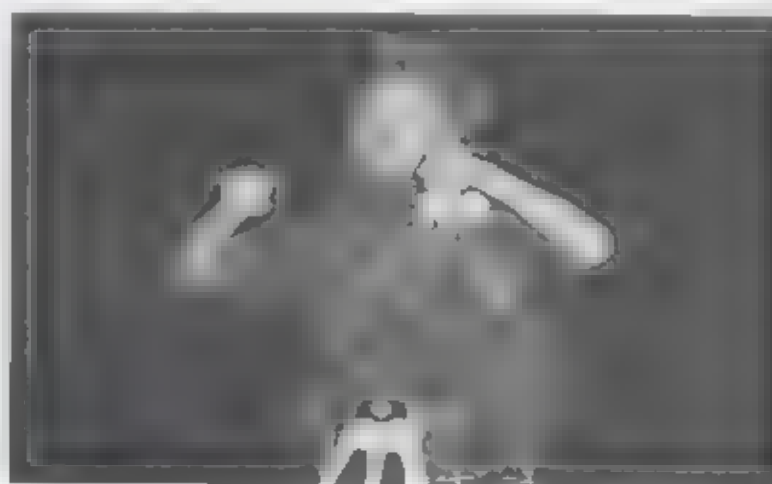

Rally began practicing in May by learning the fling from last year's squad. Then, the week after school released for summer vacation, they practiced Monday through Friday for two and a half hours a day all summer long. In July, they attended a cheerleading camp at Central Washington University in Ellensburg, to learn and improve their skills and techniques.

Money making projects to raise funds for their outfits began last spring. As soon as the rally was chosen, they started selling suntan lotion and candles. They also put on dances and sold basketball programs.

Requirements for becoming a cheerleader included a 2.5 GPA and election by the student body after performing a dance routine. Also, the Washington Interscholastic Athletic Association recognized cheerleading as a sport.

Mrs. Elana Carpenter, advisor for five years, enjoyed making the close friendships with the girls. "It would be hard for me not to really know them since I work with them for 13 months. It's really neat to see them get to do the special duties and public relations work for Kelso, as we have very worthy girls on this squad," stated Mrs. Carpenter. Because of the extremely long work load, she hired a former cheerleader, Denise Inman Werner, to help the squad with dance routines.

Promoting school spirit and leading cheers, JV and wrestling rally encouraged athletes to do their best.

The JV rally squad included Kristen Loftus, Tara Maszk, Katie Kinch,

Tricia Kenaston, Tracey Tack and Joanna Milne

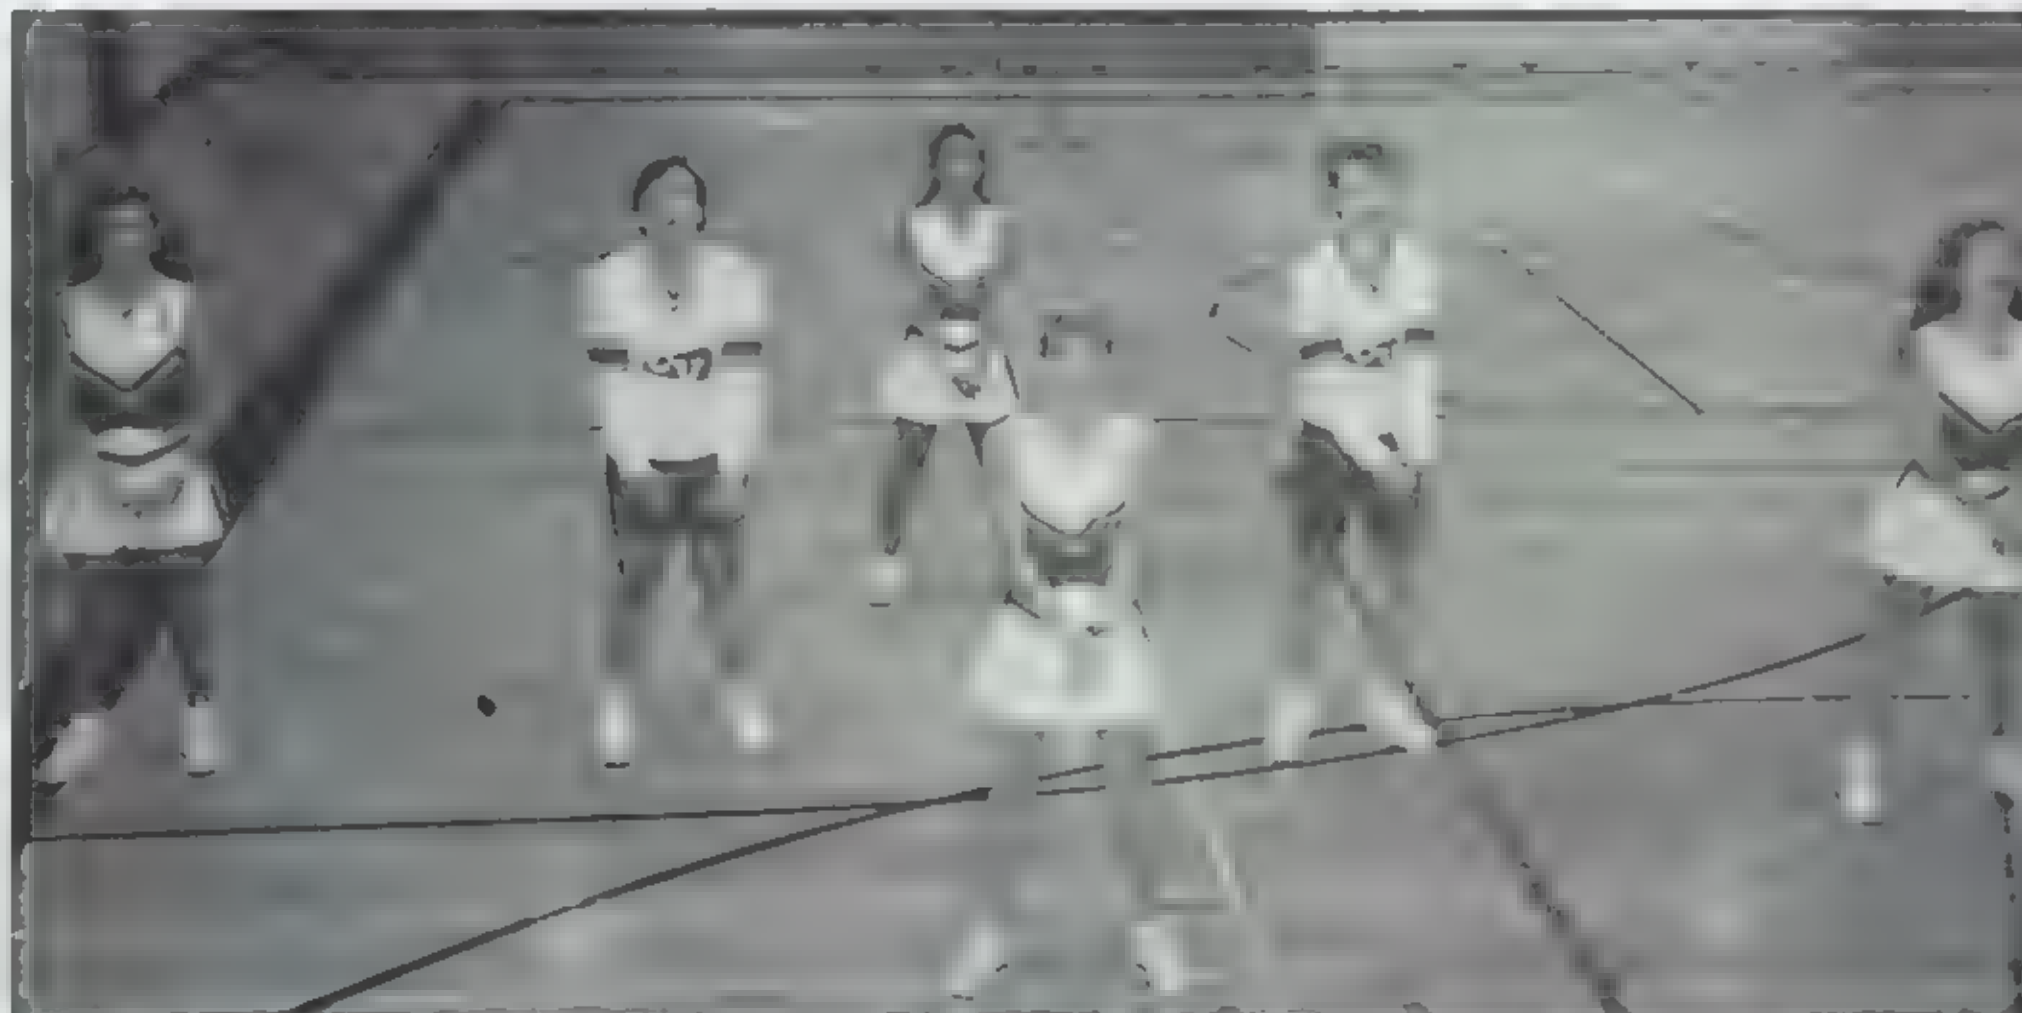

Wrestling rally consisted of Dember Curtis, Chrissy Reynolds, Kathy Lundquist, Jodi Anshutz, Holly Norton and Josephine Axellson

Requirements had to be met. Each girl needed at least a 2.5 G.P.A., an ASB card, a good attendance record and dedication

When trying out, girls performed in front of a panel of judges. New members were chosen and raised money to buy uniforms. They sold sun tan oil and barbecue sauce, which was successful. They spent many hours practicing and organizing pep assemblies and after game dances for the student body

"JV rally was a lot of fun because it kept us busy throughout the year," Katie Kinch commented

Artists perform perfection with music

'Every performance was different which made the season memorable.'

- Robin Sapirstein

'Tuesday night rehearsals and competition were great fun.'

- Bethanie Wilson

Unlike most activities, marching band started its season on the first day of school and practiced every day during school and Tuesday evenings from six to nine o'clock.

Students, not knowing what to expect from a new teacher, walked into rehearsal a little nervous.

Mr. Bart Ellis, a recent director from Junction and student at Western Washington University, started at Kelso with a positive attitude. "I enjoy teaching at Kelso. The staff and students are great and the marching band season was a success."

The marching band and color guard consisted of a drumline, horn line, fillers and 28 Kitties. The color guard, directed by Patti Hope, added grace and flair as girls used flags and dancing abilities to spice up the routines.

Even with the small number of members, the band made the best of things and entertained the crowd at halftime football games, pep assemblies and competitions in Auburn and the Kingdome festival.

Their show consisted of an opener called "Espania," a funky style of music and dancing, a jazzy style of entertainment with

"Dancing on the Ceiling" by Lionel Richie, and a closer called "Let it Be Me," a soft ballet piece that showed the crowd a different side to the band.

Under the direction of student drum majors Sean Barrett and Sheila Scott, they did their best and proved that it's not the quantity that counts; it's the quality.

'I had a very fun and exciting season. I believe our success is due to our close friendships and hard work together.'

-Julie Graham

'I had lots of fun and have made friends that will last forever.'

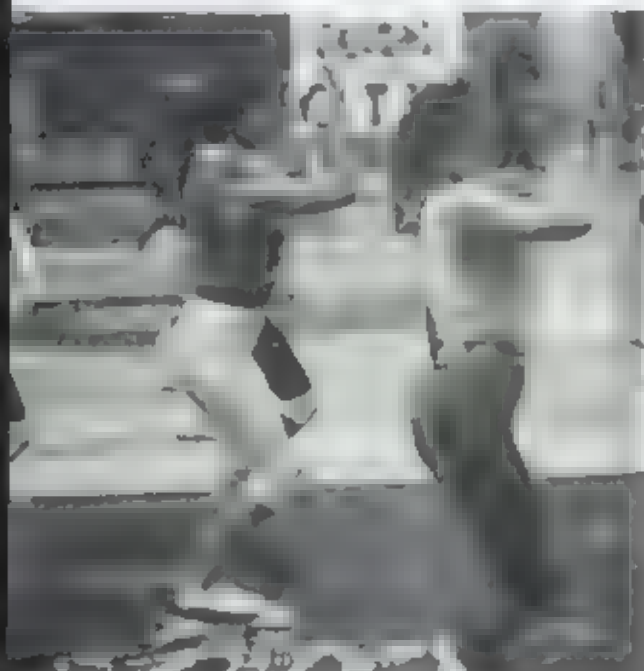

-Megan Trinneer

Performing twelve straight years in a row, Kilties had another successful season. ASB funding, music and Kilties boosters supported Kilties financially. Thirty-six girls practiced an average of eleven hours a week. The two captains were Jill Osterholm and Julie Graham. They performed their first competition in Pullman where they came in first place, and two week-ends later Kelso hosted the second competition and the girls came in first again. Competing for the third time, Kelso traveled to Portland at Wilson High, taking first in their division and overall. They danced to

'Take off with Us' from All that Jazz in each of their performances

During spring vacation Kilties toured San Francisco and Santa Cruz on the way to the largest color guard dance competition on the West Coast in Fresno. They received their highest score of the season with a 94.9, and came in first place

Their team motto was "When love and skill work together, expect a miracle," and their flower was the yellow rose

Sparked Hilanders begin to ignite

'Even though we came up short, I think all of the players would be the first to say it was a season to remember.'

- Jason Radcliffe

'It was a great year but we all know that we could have done better.'

- Scott Schauer

The Hilanders started off the season with a great attitude but the thought of going to the Kingdome made a big difference as they walked away with an undefeated league record

Stomping R.A. Long Lumberjacks with a 20-0 win and the Mark Morris Monarchs 35-8, Kelso really showed everyone what football was all about when they thrashed Ballard 41-0. The Scots walked away smiling for the real competition awaited them anxiously.

However, during the first league games, Kelso managed to crush Evergreen 33-8 and Mountain View 21-0 which made the Scots ready to go on and defeat the rest of the Vancouver teams. Battle Ground came the closest to a Scotty score, but did not have enough strength to take over the "Big Blue" for they lost with a 26-21 defeat. Hudson's Bay went home with a 35-7 loss, and Kelso proudly moved on. Then came the big game against Columbia River. Kelso corrupted Rivers' pride with a defeat of 35-7 which made Kelso the winners of the league title. Then it was time for South Kitsap.

When it came time for the Wolves, the mighty Scots surprised everyone with a 40-10 victory, and then it came time for Puyallup.

Then, all tensed up and nervous, the Hilanders came out on the field ready to take home another victory but were let down when Puyallup shut out the Scots with a defeat of 42-12. "It was a great accomplishment, but we'll never know what might have been or what could have been," replied coach John Hunt.

DTQ's host banquet in honor of season

'The banquet was a real success and receiving the coaches award made it especially memorable.'

- David Humphrey

'Hilander football is great and getting the inspirational award was a real honor.'

- Jim Ackermann

The football banquet honored the varsity, junior varsity and sophomore football teams, coaches, cheerleaders and all individuals and organizations involved in making the season a successful one.

Downtown Quarterbacks

hosted and financed the banquet with the cooperation of the Kelso Elks and the Lady Elks who prepared the meal.

In addition to the Christmas decorations, blue and gold streamers, balloons and painted posters draped across walls, doorways and railings, burying the lodge in colorful Kelso tradition. Donated by Bob Kelley, enlarged color photos of each senior football player lined the sides of the lodge.

Senior players received bottles of Pepsi decorated in festive plaid ribbon with champagne glasses and a card attached reading, "Celebrate '87." They took home a book of statistics put together and donated by KLOG, along with other tokens of the football season.

The banquet began with speeches from members of the DTQ's and the Elks lodge and proceeded with introductions of coaches and the varsity rally performing the Híand Fling.

After dinner, Coaches Lee Faling and John Hunt began with special awards by honoring Jason Radcliffe with the offensive player award and Scott Koth with the defensive player award. Coach Pat Hymes presented Jeff Heaton with a trophy as most improved player, while David Humphrey and Scott Schauer received the two coaches' awards given by Dave Carpenter and Ed Laulainen. In conclusion, Bill Moulton introduced the inspirational player award voted on by the team members. Tosh Mayeda, a Kelso alumni and former inspirational player awarded Jim Ackermann the trophy.

The ceremony ended with a benediction by the Elks Chaplain, Bill LaRiviera.

JV football, coached by Gordy Sargent and Dave Carpenter had a schedule of nine games played usually on Mondays

JV's compiled six wins while only falling twice. The first loss came from Mt. View. 'We never could get our offense moving like we should have,' replied quarterback Robb Hunt

Kelso used the Mt. View loss to motivate them the rest of the season. Scoring 25 or more points the next three games proved the Hillander pups were playing with a given inspiration

Stand-out Darren Boswell stated, "When our goals for the season became threatened, the whole team turned it up a notch."

Although the ultimate team goal was not accomplished, the JV's made their mark in the league as a real contender

With two losses under their belt, Kelso came out and buried Ft. Vancouver 47-6. Both Robb and Darren agreed, "All in all, we played as a complete unit during our last game against Fort (Vancouver)."

Kelso Volleyball members started out by working extra hard at practices in hopes of making it a winning season. Thriving enthusiastically with a very positive attitude helped to encourage the team's spirit

Attaining great comebacks highlighted many games. Long rallies baffled others, putting Kelso on top!

"Great! They worked hard and were a team," boasted Coach Sybouts, proud of her team's accomplishments Bringing home hardware appeared to be within the spirit. Taking first place at Prairie and fourth place at Centerville, the team did an outstanding job. Third place at the district meet proved even more for ending of the season.

Wearing blue and gold continued to be a requirement at every game for coach Sybouts. Other superstitions requested by team members included a cheer that would be changed if they lost a match

They accomplished many of their goals. They improved the season by making it a spirited way to remember this volleyball season

Cross country advances to state again

'Mr. Stewart was an inspiration toward our successful season.'

-Staci Baker

Over a period of five years Ke so won a total of 76 cross country meets. Consisting of 23 boys and 14 girls, the team had another successful season.

After both boys and girls varsity won the district meet held at KHS, Oct 30, cross country traveled to Port Townsend Nov 7, to compete in the AAA championships. Tammy Wines placed twenty-two, Laura Moore finished twenty-six, Jeana Jessop at thirty-nine, Stacy Baker at forty-four and Karen Malella at sixty-seven.

The boys finished eleven overall. Leading the Scots, Chuck Piper placed twenty-three, Brent Carmack finished forty-two, with Anthony Rojo right behind placing forty-three. Doug Reid completed the race at fifty-two, and Dominic Anaya finished at sixty-two.

Teammates voted Anthony Rojo for most inspirational boy and Tammy Wines for most inspirational girl.

Coaches included Mr. Joe Stewart and Mr. Rick Ames. Mr. Stewart said that the highlight of the year was how the team improved over the season.

Although the team lacked swimmers and divers, they still managed to place third in league and at district. Finishing with a 4-2 league record and 5-2 record overall, the girls accomplished goals they set at the beginning of the season. "We wanted to beat all the teams we could. We lost to Mark Morris and Columbia River because of our lack of depth." The highlight of the season was beating Fort Vancouver even though 20 percent of the team was out from sicknesses and injuries.

Keiso sent four swimmers to the state meet, held at the University of Washington. Kim Pleasant swam the 100 breaststroke, placing 21, and the 200 medley relay team consisting of Mary Witham, Kim Feider, Erica Faulkner and Kim Pleasant finished 21.

The team held their banquet at Roy's Chuckwagon in Longview. Erica Faulkner took home the most dedicated, captain and most valuable swimmer awards. Kim Pleasant received the most outstanding swimmer and Kim Feider was named the most inspirational. Suzie Vine was honored with the most improved rookie and Becky Haggard most improved overall. Accepting the most valuable rookie was Mary Witham.

Coach Gerald Malella enjoyed working with the girls again after taking a few years off from coaching. "They were enthusiastic and willing to learn. It makes me feel good when I know I can help kids improve themselves," he stated.

The '87-88 girls' tennis team put forth a winning effort and learned the fundamentals of the game. The team played their home matches at R A. Long and strived hard to work for personal bests. The girls practiced long and hard hours everyday, working for what they knew it took to be winners. The team had a season of learning and quite a few returning players although the final record was 0-13. The experienced girls helped the team work hard on learning the correct way to play tennis.

"The team had a strong backbone of Juniors who will be there next year with experience, so the future is bright. Learning how to play the game is what an organized team is all about and the team did that well," said coach Jim H.

Girls' soccer team started off the season with goals to have a better record, to play together as a team, and to make the playoffs

The girls met their first goal by getting a 5-4-1 record in league and 9-5-1 overall. The players finished fourth place among AAA schools and fifth place in league.

"The girls played much more as a team this year," commented new girls' coach Dana Stilwell. "We missed play-offs by only one game."

Kelso's highlight of the season was tying Mark Morris 2-2 and knocking Columbia River, the first place team in AAA, out of playoffs.

"Sophomore Mignon Hess did a great job as goalie for us," Stilwell said. Mignon helped the team to a total of six shutouts

The team held its banquet at Engine House Pizza in Longview. Senior Kris Berg took honors of MVP, junior Keri Hickman was named outstanding defender, junior Penni Nave received the award for most goals, and sophomore Yvonne Lewis received most improved. Kris Berg, who had 9 goals and 6 assists, and Penni Nave, who had 11 goals and 6 assists, were named to the all conference team. Marci Adams and Mignon Hess were named as honorable mentions

The Highlander Grapplers came into the year with a state champion and short a few wrestlers, but they had something to prove and by the second match they had found a 104 pounder. The wrestling team along with Coach Jerry Hamm, Terry Anshutz, and Gary Dagleish stressed the importance of hard work and kept the team's nose to the grindstone. The guys practiced everyday which led to some key victories for the whole team

The Highlanders fought their way into a third place finish in the District Tournament at Mountain View High School with 194 points. The Highlanders finished fifth in the dual meet season, but true to form, powered their way to a high finish in the district tournament. Five Highlanders directly qualified to the regional tournament in Puyallup. In all 13 Scots placed in the 9 team 16 man bracket

The Highlander Grapplers placed ninth at the Region 3 State Qualifier Tournament in Puyallup. Jim Stewart was the Regional Champion at 129 lbs. with a pin in the first round and two major victories following that. Donovan Effray qualified for the State tournament with a fourth place finish and Erik White and Dennis Stacey traveled as alternates. Jim Stewart, state champion at 122 moved up to go for the title at 129. With a loss in the first round, Jim took a third in the state tournament in Ellensburg, finished his season 35-1, and ended his career with a 92-4 record, finishing with three straight victories. Donovan Effray, at 122 lbs. was eliminated in the first two rounds but gave it a good effort and enjoyed the trip. 'Thank God for the football team.'

-Junior Sparr

In describing the varsity basketball season, the word determination seemed to pop up in minds everywhere. The comeback trek started three years ago when head coach Rob Hipp took control of the basketball program which he described as one of the biggest challenges of his coaching career.

"I've found, over the years, that if you have the patience and the courage to stick with something long enough, eventually you will succeed," replied Coach Hipp.

Kelso started dropping their first three non-league games and the same old song started to play in Kelso. "We knew we were a better team than that, but we just had a lot to overcome from preceding years," explained Jason Soderman. A glimmer of hope spread when Kelso capitalized on their home court advantage by beating Evergreen, Fort Vancouver, and league leading Battle Ground. Still more heart ache came. Although Kelso began to play well, Mt. View and Columbia River both delivered hard hitting blows.

Play-off hopes shattered somewhat on the loss against Ft. Vancouver. Winding up the season with a 5-15 record, Kelso chafed up another rebuilding year.

Ears became overwhelmed by the constant shouts of those caught up in the wave of "ReCon Fever." The JV's adopted the name ReCon by scrimaging day after day against the varsity with the benefits geared toward the varsity team. Players bought camouflage shirts, giving them the look they desired. The JV's took advantage of play - as a team which gave them the winning edge.

"All summer everyone on the team played every chance we could get. I don't think it's any accident we're playing like we are," stated Brian McCoy.

Head coach Paul Mayer saw these kids come up through the program and felt somewhat surprised by their winning performance. "They made a big turn around since last year. They finally started using their heads instead of their mouths when they played," replied Coach Mayer.

The sophomore team was designed to get those players straight out of junior high and teach them the strategy behind Kelso basketball. Even with a 9-11 record, the goal became accomplished. Coached by Mr. Bill Lehning, the sophomores showed signs of a bright future for Kelso basketball.

In pre-season ranks, girl's varsity team was picked to finish third to last in the league standings. They ended up 10-7 and tied for second in league play and 13-9 overall.

With four seniors, four juniors and two sophomores, the girls accomplished many goals they set at the beginning of the season. One of the goals made included making the district tournament, which was the first time in over a decade for a Kelso team to reach the playoffs.

Defeating Mark Morris 44-38 highlighted Kelso's season. Winning this game meant a district playoff berth and also a personal satisfaction as it had been six years since Kelso had beaten Mark Morris.

Girls and parents attended the banquet held in the cafeteria on March 15. Kim Pleasant took home the free throw award. The most improved award went to Marci Adams. Kris Berg and Kim Pleasant shared the most inspirational, and the rebound award went to Deanna Stokes. Karen Probst and DeAnne Crayne each received the captains award.

They worked well together as a team and peaked at the right time. We won four of the last five games to achieve our goal of making the district tournament," stated varsity coach Mr. Ray Berg.

The JV team coached by Mr. Mike McMahon consisted of eight sophomores and four varsity players who split time between the two teams. They ended their season with a league record of 10-7 and an overall record of 12-8.

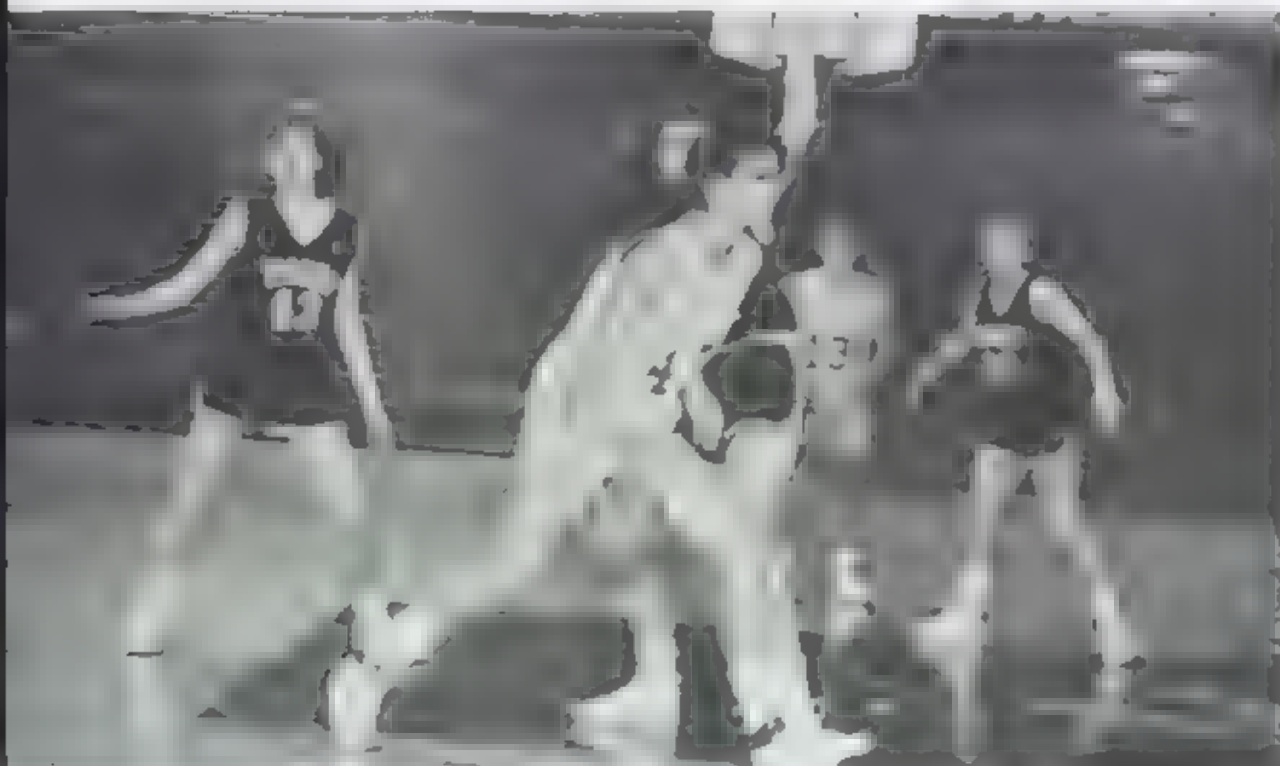

At the banquet, coaches awarded Dena Compton with the freethrow award, Beth DeVries with the most inspirational, Amy Lane with the captain's award and Kayla May with the rebound award.

The boys' swim team consisted of 14 members, 11 competed in swimming and 3 competed in diving. Though the team included strong swimmers and divers, it lacked depth. The few tankers ended the season with a 2-3 league record.

Regionals were held at Kelso High Garther Pool. In regional competition, Rob Cook won the 50 and 100 freestyle and swam freestyle in the first place 200 medley relay team. Rob Wirtz won the 100 backstroke in the first place 200 medley relay. Bill Elliott competed also in the 200 medley relay swimming butterfly, and Darrin Jones swam breast. Each of these first place finishers went on to compete in state championships held at the University of Washington on February 27 and 28.

Team captain Bill Elliott stated, 'This year we have a small team with very little depth, but despite that we had some great swims won a few meets and had a great time doing it. Coach Matella worked us harder than we ever worked before, but nobody seemed to mind and it all paid off in the end.'

The swimming banquet was held on March 1. Mr. Matella gave a short speech to summarize the season. Following his inspiring wrap up, he awarded Rob Cook the inspirational, most valuable swimmer and outstanding swimmer awards. Bill Elliott accepted the captain's award, Chris Mealy was awarded the most improved swimmer, Mark Peterson received the most improved rookie award, and Rene Mandrones was named outstanding rookie.

Spirit, dedication and experience gave the track team an edge over the other league schools. This combination put winning confidence in every member of the team.

Head Coach Joe Stewart, assisted by Rick Ames, Dora Sybouts Al Wise and Skip Guard, proved to have a profitable year. "Having the right people with the right attitude, the season ended on a successful note," stated Coach Stewart.

In boys' distance and middle distance, Brent Carmack and Chuck Piper led the team performance and inspiration. Girls' distance, a close hard working group led by Tammy Wines, Staci Baker and Laura Moore, competed well and swept most of the longer runs.

Jeff Groce, Mark McGhee and Lindsey Bloomfeldt carried the boys' hurdling crew. Deanne Crayne led the hurdlers for the girls, while Coby Bell, Capri Bullock, Mikki Dunn and Kari Hickman competed in the sprints. Early in the season, boys' sprints proved sparse until seniors Chris Olsen running 11.1 and Doug Cade running 11.4 strengthened the squad.

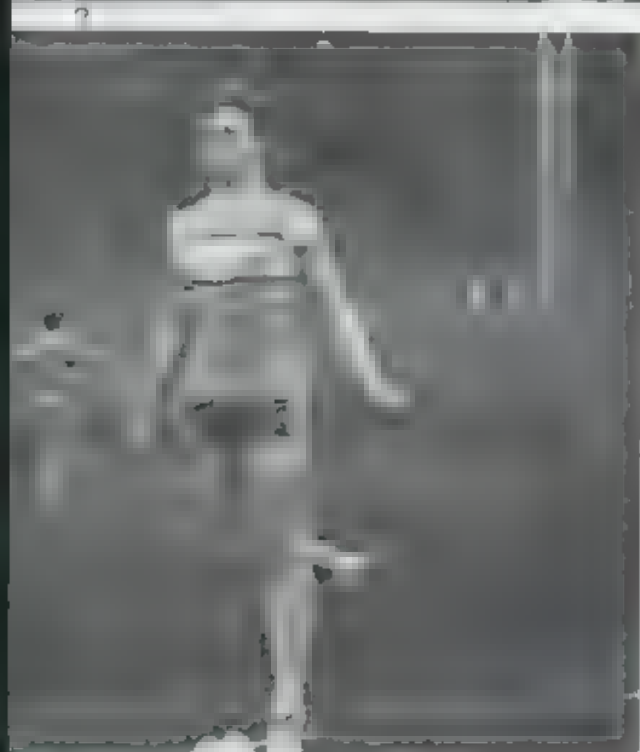

The team had eleven state competitors. Chuck Piper ran 4:59.4, qualifying for state in the boys' 800. Brent Carmack competed in the 3200 at 9:46.4. Scott Schauer, team captain and returning state competitor for the third year, placed in both the shot put at 54'9" and the javelin at 187'10". John Curtis also competed in the javelin, qualifying at 193'10". Jamie Schlarb, a junior went to state in the discus, throwing a 147' toss to qualify.

The girls' also had several qualifiers for state, Tammy Wines in the 3200 with 12:24.8 while Laura Moore ran the 1600 in 12:16.8 at district. The 4x200 relay team made up of Capri Bullock, Coby Bell, Kari Hickman and Mikki Dunn qualified with ease. In the field events Kari Hickman leaped her way to state at 16'11". Tammy Harper tossed the discus 98'8", and Karen Probst threw her personal record at district of 36'7".

-Scott Schauer

The field events aspect of track came into the season with many underclassmen. Veterans gave new members tips on technique and form. Coach Wise explained, "Having a successful team meant striving for your own personal best which will also result in helping the team."

In the javelin, John Curtis threw the farthest at 193'10", while Scott Schauer followed closely behind at 187'10". Darcella Page threw best for the Lassies at 115' and Vick Reese followed at 106'9". Scott Schauer led the Scots in the shot put, putting at 54'9", and leading the way for the girls'. Karen Probst threw a 36'7". In the discus, Jamie Schlarb led the competition with a 147' toss, Xavier Cavazos threw a 138' followed by Scott Schauer at 143'11".

Kari Hickman, a junior, led the girls' long jump at 16'11". Close behind her Mikki Dunn jumped at 15'5". Lindsey Bloomfeldt led boys' side with a 20'4" jump followed by Sado Hamashima, at 19'3". In the triple jump, Mark McGhee skipped in at 38'2", while Kari Hickman led the girls at 20'8".

In the pole vault event, Jason Rohwedder blazed the way with a leap of 11'9". In the high jump, Chuck Piper competed at 5'10" while Capri Bullock took first position for girls' at 5'2". Thressa Shaw followed closely with a jump of 4'2".

Imagine, the warm wind blowing softly on a face of pure concentration and the feel and smell of fresh green grass rolling under the feet of a true competitor. Imagine in the stillness of the morning the course presenting an appealing challenge by its breath taking silence

Out on the course much more was involved than that which was perceived by the human eye alone. Elements of weather and the course prevented the domination of any man on any given day.

Kelso golfers not only defeated the elements but effortlessly handled their opponents. Posting a 10-1 record coach Gary Nunamaker was more than pleased with the performance his kids checked in. 'This year was successful in more than just win-loss

These kids were more than just champions' stated Mr. Nunamaker.

In the rest of tournament play Kelso put on a match of their own. Consisting of 14 other teams throughout the state, Kelso placed an impressive second. When spring hit Kelso, out came the new baseball bats along with the stiff leather gloves. The smell of grass and the crack of the bat gave Kelso fans a reason to love the game of baseball all that much more.

Both JV and varsity enjoyed a successful season. After clawing their way through league play with big wins over Columbia River, Fort and Evergreen and big losses from Hudson's Bay, Praine, and Columbia River, varsity team began preparing for the play-offs.

In the district tournament,

Kelso faced seventh ranked, North Thurston. Winning 16-3, Kelso felt a fresh wave of confidence. Crippled early by Columbia River's eight runs in the first two innings, a four run rally in the fifth and sixth spe led the end for Kelso. "We had a great year and really had a lot of fun," replied Jim Ackermann.

The JV's, coached by Mr. John Simpson, had no play-offs to attend, but ended up taking second in their league. "Given enough time, we could have won it all," stated Darren Clark.

Lassies take league with 16-3 record

'We had the talent to go as far as we wanted, but we just didn't seem to get the breaks when we needed them.'

-Kim Timmreck

'We were all friends so that helped us to play as a team.'

-Heather Crisman

The Kelso Lassies began their season in the first part of March with try-outs. Once the team was picked, the girls began to prepare for their first game. In their season opener the Lassies rolled over rival Prairie 9 to 1, and from there they went on to top the league with an impressive 16-3 league record and an 17-4 overall record

The Lassies with five seniors, six juniors and four sophomores set goals of the league and district titles and a return trip to the state tournament. They were only one run short of accomplishing every goal they wanted to reach when Timberline, from Tacoma, defeated the Lassies 5 to 4 in district play.

Kelso had a few close games this year. In the first meeting between Kelso and Washougal, it took 11 innings before Kelso won the game 4 to 3. In another game Prairie took Kelso 8 innings before Kelso prevailed again 2 to 1. In the season finale, Kelso defeated Washougal 6 to 3 to take the league title

The Lassies were coached by Mr. Arne Lund who has been coaching Kelso varsity softball for twelve years.

The JV team, coached by Mr. Mike McMahon, finished the season with a 6-4 league record and a 7-4 overall record. They placed third place in the league standings.

Heart ~~Hilander~~ Throb

Heart Throb week began as students covered their bodies in Rambo garb, sports attire and clothes of the opposite sex. On Friday Lassies narrowed down sixteen candidates to five princes, and later that night, the court lifted King Scott Schauer to their shoulders and carried him around the dance floor to the cheers of the crowd and the beat of old time rock and roll.

Festivities started with the spirit week, followed by a game with rival Mark Morris and a dance crowning the king. Marc Spink in his backless leopard skin dress, Frederic Fonterosa with his long blonde hair and Kirk Robbins, showing all of his legs in his Kittie outfit, typified Hilander Spirit on "Opposite Sex Day." On sports day Scott Schauer participated in "the sport of Kelso" dressed as a smelt dipper. Shannon Irons, Jennifer Record and Tracy Williamson became she-Rambos in guns and green guerrilla gear. Joe Kimball showed the true spirit of Kelso wearing "Munch the Monarchs" spirit buttons all over his body and sitting in the middle of the Monarch crowd.

At the assembly, the band played "Let It Be Me" while tension mounted as five girl escorts opened their envelopes, looking for that special someone. Kristen Berg presented Frederic Fonterosa, "The man from France," with a purple balloon. Nicole Knight escorted prince Jason Rodcliffe to the center of the gym. Then Kim Pleasant shot Jim Ackermann in the face with a water gun from her Rambo outfit, then joined the court. Erin McGhee grabbed Anthony Rojo and Tracy Williamson, escorting Scott Schauer, took their places with the first four couples.

Candidates embraced the fans who rushed to congratulate them at the end of the ceremony.

People attending Friday night's game chose the king. Afterwards, at the dance, DeAnne Crayne introduced the court, their escorts, and counted to three as they opened their boxes. A purple balloon designated the king and pink, the court. The week's events came to a close with the coronation of Scott Schauer. Kelso fans danced until 11:30 when the work of Mrs. Elana Carpenter, Mrs. Bev Lautainen and the pep club drew to an end.

'I have been impressed with the ability of ASB members to discuss difficult issues and to listen to one another.'

-Miss Paula Radich

Led by President Eric Richards, Vice-President Alex Lannon, Secretary Bill Elliott and Business Manager Eric Jones, the associated student body accomplished many goals they set at the beginning of the year. They put on an after game dance and barbeque, they bought a stereo for the cafeteria and they sponsored "The Edge" assembly and concert. Officers and representatives also discussed buying a new reader board and starting the tradition of having a senior courtyard.

ASB held meetings when they were needed which was about every two weeks. A few days before the meetings, officers met with advisor Miss Paula Radich to discuss the agenda and to brainstorm new ideas. Other responsibilities of the officers included counting and rolling money from the pop machines, approving and signing all of the purchase orders for the clubs and most of all, working together to make ASB work.

ASB officers organized such fundraisers as a dance and barbeque, ASB cards and "The Edge," for which they received ten percent of the ticket sales. The pop machines and the gate receipts from the home sporting events proved to be the biggest money makers of the year.

'Lassies tried to promote spirit but the amount of activity involving kids was limited.'

-Elana Carpenter

Lassies, the oldest and largest school club, had about 75 members. For homecoming, Lassies met every week to plan for the event. They chose escorts, sold mums supported the football team, and selected the days for spirit week.

Even though there were close to 100 members, this was the lowest participation year for the club, said Mrs. Bev Laulainen, club advisor.

In the spring, Lassies put together their second biggest activity, the Highlander Heart-throb. Spirit week, including guerrilla garb, clothes of the opposite sex and sports day helped kick Highlander Heartthrob '88 into its second year.

Mr. Joe Ackermann supervised a smaller group. Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). Members made teenagers aware of the dangers of driving drunk.

When prom time came around, the group made posters to remind students that if they drink, don't drive. Members stressed that students can have fun without drinking.

'People are more friendly in the United States than in Japan.'

-Kenji Hiraga

Making new friendships throughout the world became a priority for International Relations Club (IRC). Learning from other students about their home countries brought one way of making strong friendships

World Friendship Day began when fifteen foreign travelers visited school February 24 and 25. Sharing stories of their home countries remained the important topics during their visit. Answering questions and presenting slides raised interest in foreign travel

The advisor of IRC, Mrs. Kay

Stern, helped organize events so that officers could plan for World Friendship Day. Creating the theme "Rock Around the World" became one of the first things to be planned. The IRC officers included President Karen Maeda, Vice-President Darci Kreider, Secretary Karen Probst, and Treasurer Kim Pleasant

- Dana McReynolds

Lights, cameras, action, the tension of eight weeks of practice for three nights of glory came together in the form of The Curious Savage. The first play of the year starred seniors Joe Flock, Jerie Macie and Pete Hansen. The new drama club advisor, Ms. Randelle Dootson, chose The Curious Savage because it was a light comedy that didn't call for a large cast. A complementary mix of experienced and inexperienced actors made the show a huge success. The proceeds went toward buying tools and materials for building sets and backdrops as well as scripts for future plays.

The play ran for three nights, November 19-21, in the Kelso High Auditorium. The Curious Savage, a comedy, centered around an institution for the mentally ill and the Savages, a wealthy family of one of the patients. The play began with Mrs. Savage (Dana McReynolds) an elderly lady who was committed to an institution by her three children, Lilly Belle (Jerie Macie) Titus, (Joe Flock) and Hannibal, (Pete Hansen). The scheming kids planned to use their mother's money and to keep her locked up. Their plan foiled as the elderly Mrs. Savage took what was left of her inheritance, and invested in non-negotiable bonds. She then proceeded to hide them and her kids ventured out on a wild goose chase to find the hidden cash. The convincing acting of the cast led the audience right up to a final confrontation between mother and children. Mrs. Savage was finally released from the institution having made many valuable new friends.

Inexperienced staff meets deadlines

'We started inexperienced but enthusiastic about yearbook. Because of all the new students, we had a lot of fresh ideas for this year's book.'

- Co-editor Erin McGhee

'I enjoyed working with Erin and the staff to put together the best book possible.'

- Co-editor Karen Malella

The '87-88 Bagpipe staff consisting of twelve students, started out the year under the direction of Adviser Miss Sharon Cooper and Co-editors Erin McGhee and Karen Malella

"The purpose of a yearbook," stated Miss Cooper, "is to be a memory book for all students, a history of the year, a reference book, an educational learning experience, and a public relations vehicle."

The qualifications of a yearbook student included the ability to write well, work well with others and be dependable

The staff needed to be at work at the start of the year. Students paired up into twos and set out to sell advertisements for the book. Staffers had to work to make up for the time lost to the yearbooks from R. A. Long and Mark Morris who had about a week head start. But through personal will power and encouragement from editors, this was accomplished

Staffers elected Amber Coburn as ad manager, while Karen Malella pulled double time as business manager. Given that assignment, Amber set out to do all the advertisement pages. As business manager, Karen needed to count money and receipts every day during yearbook sales which ran through Halloween. She recorded all the names of people who bought one

Then came the task of putting together the book. First, a page ladder had to be drawn up. After several corrections, the staff learned how to write copy, captions and headlines. Photographers learned how to develop and print

First layout assignments in hand, the staff struggled through their first ones but improved. By the end of the year, students turned in about a layout a week to achieve a complete book and to meet company deadlines

Erin McGhee summed up the year by saying, "I was real proud of everyone involved to achieve the common goal of the best yearbook possible"

'It's been a great year in newspaper class and it's always a pleasure to work with this fine piece of machinery I call a staff.'

Bill Elliott

The bi-weekly school newspaper, Hiland Echo, was a joint effort of a dozen students ranging from new sophomores to experienced second-year editors. This class was responsible for writing and interviewing, typing, lay-outs, design, photography, developing and selling ads

Bill Elliott, a senior two-year veteran, headed the class. As editor-in-chief, he was responsible for those underneath him and looking over everything that went into the paper. Katie Kinch was head of sports, Christine Wilson of news, Janene Enders of features and Russ Wilson of advertising and management. These people checked with writers of their respective departments

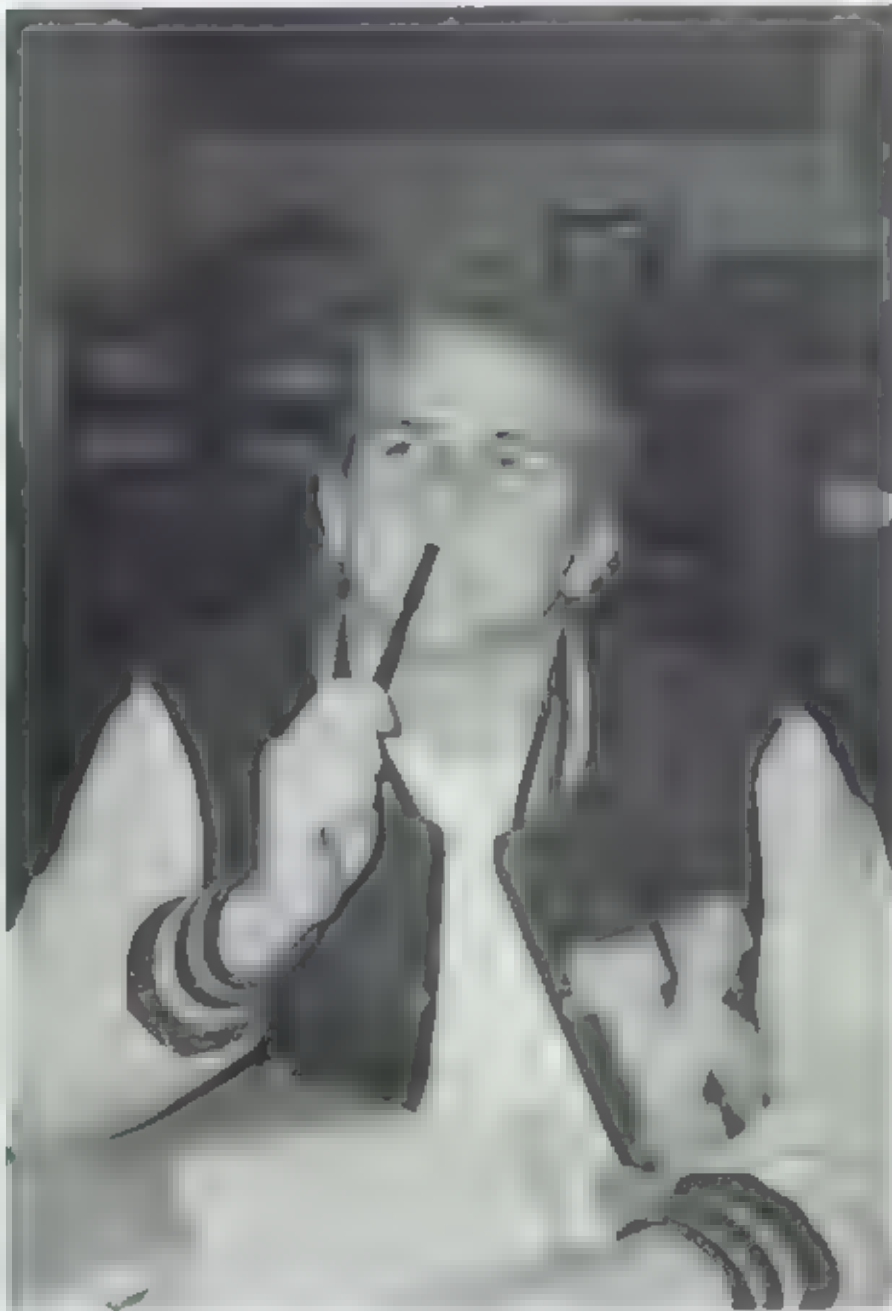

The enthusiasm of this staff overcame their inexperience. Writers worked to be a voice for the student body, a key to their success

Bill Elliott and Katie Kinch attended a conference at the University of Washington on AIDS. Together they wrote a feature on what they learned

The paper was advised by Miss Sharron Cooper. "I want the newspaper class to be a learning experience that will be a benefit to the news staff as well as the student body," explained Miss Cooper. This was her fifteenth year advising

"Due to the long hours Miss Cooper puts into the newspaper, it continues to be a Kelso High success," said Editor Bill Elliott

'Who knows? Maybe this just points toward the success I'm going to have.'

'It was great to be your boss' said Jay Worth, president of Honor Society. Jay and his cabinet, Julie Crumrine, Nick Ring, and Denelle Reynolds brought together the group and accomplished many things during the year.

The students involved in Honor Society had to keep up at least a 3.4 grade point average, but just getting good grades did not make them members. Each person participated in at least eight hours of service work. Groups of these students lent a helping hand throughout the year in guiding the freshman orientation, parent-teacher conferences in the fall and the self-study project in April.

The Honor Society members, their advisor Mrs. Joyce Newcomb and the officers put together, and organized the induction ceremony. Honor Society inducted 38 new members at the Thunderbird on May 3.

A train trip to Seattle for students on May 12 finished off the year and rewarded them for their hours of work for the club with a day off from school for just plain fun!

Another group at Kelso High was the top five percent. These 13 people studied and kept their grade points at an outstanding high all four years. They were named by Mr. Bill Lehning, the counselor at the end of the first semester. These kids weren't just outstanding students, but they were involved in school. Many of them balanced social and athletic activities as well as a successful academic life. The top five percent wore gold medallions around their necks during graduation ceremonies to show all parents and students their achievements during their careers at Kelso High School.

Orchestra, choir and jazz choir performed at many events throughout the school year. Taking part in contests and putting on winter and spring concerts were their major performances. Choir, along with band, orchestra and jazz choir held a major Christmas presentation at the Columbia Theater for performing arts in downtown Longview.

Choir, under the direction of Alex Hurt, made many appearances at KHS and sang for several churches in the local area. In March, the choir participated in a music festival held in Tumwater. Choir students Joe Robbins and Jill Anderson said that they enjoyed having Mr. Hurt as their instructor as well as learning his new material. They felt positive with the rapid progression of their class.

Jazz choir met every morning at 7 a.m. "The students find it a great learning experience, and it is easier to sing before you are awake. Overall it was exhilarating," said Jeremy Balter.

In the spring, jazz choir performed at the Elks and several community gatherings. The musicians also attended the Mt. Hood Community College Music festival.

Orchestra members directed by George Simonsen, appeared at symphonies. The orchestra made appearances at the Elks banquet, Chamber of Commerce and several other concerts, festivals and banquets.

Anthony Rojo recalled how he enjoyed and respected learning under the expertise of Mr. George Simonsen.

"I felt that the Latin conventions were a good experience for the students and Mr. Wingate was fun to work with

Vicki Reese

Kesro High's foreign language clubs included French, Spanish, Russian and Latin.

In order to be in a club, requirements needed to be fulfilled. Each member had to be enrolled in a for-foreign language class for at least one year. Officers collected one dollar dues to pay for on-going activities.

Students involved in the clubs learned to pronounce words correctly, memorize verbs and learn the cultures and way of life in the foreign lands.

The annual tolo, put on by the French Club, turned out to be an exciting activity. French Club also had a nice dinner in Portland. Spanish Club enjoyed game night and the special Spanish dinner as well. Russian Club went to a ballet in Portland, which made an exciting night for the students. They interviewed a Russian author and learned about Russian literature.

Latin Club also traveled to Portland for a dinner, and they learned new things at the conferences they attended.

Many students enjoyed the clubs because it helped better their knowledge about the foreign lands.

"This has been the most interesting year. We've had more opportunities, and it's good experience for the students," stated Larry Vining, Russian Club advisor.

It's an opportunity for the kids to get together and have a little fun," commented Spanish Club advisor Betty Clouse.

DECA teaches about 'color of money'

'Learning the tricks of the trade in marketing made 'taking care of business' a breeze'

- Vicky Reese

Distributive Education Clubs of America paved the way for future ambitions by giving students the opportunity to run and manage their own school store. Taking the seniors and a handful of juniors by storm, DECA brought excitement to those wanting to excel in the world of business. Seniors fied on the buses every day to make their journey to the Three Rivers Mall where they held class in a carpeted, luxurious room

DECA established its name at Kelso High as well as in the community by organizing fund raisers, establishing a school store, raffling off a limo ride to a Pink Floyd concert, and also selling spirit items at Kelso football games. "It's just a great opportunity to be able to work with real money and make real decisions concerning business," stated Vice-President Lonnie Beckstrand

Although it was DECA's first year at Kelso High, it was already rated one of the top classes in the state because of the convenience of the mall

Mr Rick Davis and his right hand man "Mr. President," Junior Spain, were the backbone of DECA. They were responsible for decision-making concerning DECA activities "Regardless of students' long term goals, the marketing program is designed to be helpful and practical throughout their lives," said Mr. Davis

Knowledge, Science equal success

'Because of Science Club, I can fully understand the principle behind the snapping, crackling, and popping of Rice Krispies.'

- Marc Spink

Known to be prestigious and a club of intellects, the Knowledge Bowl and Science Club took a great deal of pride in achievements throughout the year. The advisor of the Science Club was Mr. Don Norton who helped officers Kirk Robbins, president; Marc Spink, vice-president; Becky Carroll, secretary, in planning all the activities during the year. The advisor of Knowledge Bowl was Mr. Carl Wingate, who helped prepare the team for meets by quizzing them with questions.

When the Science Club or Knowledge Bowl wasn't inventing a nuclear bomb or meditating for an upcoming competition, they did some things purely for enjoyment. Jennifer Specht, the only girl in Knowledge Bowl, went to Portland to participate in a local game show, On The Spot, and Science Club members took a trip to the San Juan Islands. All of this was paid for by their hard work selling concessions at the boys' home basketball games as well as with money from the treasury. With the profits left after the trip, the club bought a digital weighing machine for the science wing. The Science Club sponsored two scholarships to students interested in the field.

It wasn't just the Science Club who did all of the activities. Knowledge Bowl sent members of the club to competitions, quiz-show like affairs, where any question from baseball to politics could be asked.

The Knowledge Bowl and Science Club success came in the students' excitement and willingness to be a vital part of each club.

Mr. Gary Hunziker, in his first year of advising Future Business Leaders of America, stated, "The purpose of FBLA is to help build leadership skills."

FBLA had a total of 26 members led by Julie Lane, president; Angie Morris, vice-president; Katie Sherrell, secretary; and Kelli Beaston, treasurer.

For fund raisers, FBLA sold candy and Christmas grams and put on a dance in February.

The group attended three conferences throughout the year. In February, they went to LCC; in April to the southwest regional conference in Portland; and in May to the state conference for four days in Spokane.

For Future Farmers of America, activities included logging, forestry and livestock contests and entering fairs. FFA had 87 members led by Mr. Wayne Holderby, advisor for 12 years.

Fund raisers for FFA included selling apples in the fall, Christmas swags in the winter and plants from the greenhouse in the spring.

The club members attended district conference and also went to the state conference in Pullman during May.

"The purpose of FFA is to develop leadership skills," explained Mr. Wayne Holderby.

"FHA built confidence in a soon to be bachelor on his own."

-Darrel Cornforth

---

As avid student supporters, FHA took a great deal of pride in not only teaching students about the necessities of life, but also letting them experience situations they would someday face on their own.

Different activities sponsored or involved in by the FHA consisted of powder puff in the fall, along with supplying the Progress Center with stockings for hurt or abandoned children in the winter, followed by attending the state convention in the spring.

The FHA was headed by Mrs. Lucy Calhoun. Officers for FHA consisted of President Marie Marks, Vice-president Karla Sloop, Secretary Bonnie Buck, and Treasurer Darrel Cornforth.

FHA was not just a club but came across more as a family. After the annual powder puff game, the club invited parents and family to an awards dinner, where players and club members were honored for their loyalty to the FHA.

As a summary of the year, advisor Mrs. Calhoun replied, "it's just neat for me to see all the kids plan for their future and get to see them carry it out."

Voices gather audience attention

Drama Club presented "Voices From the High School" directed by Ms. Randee Dootson on April 21-23. The play constructed of only two acts portrayed problems very common to any high school. Drama students decided to do this type of play because they thought it might help people understand some of the issues that teenagers faced.

The play demonstrated pieces of many teenagers' lives. Some scenes expressed feelings of personal experiences such as drugs, teenage pregnancy, suicide, vandalism and child abuse. These issues gave drama students a chance to explore problems of their own lives and those of their friends.

Outstanding performances by students resulted in a very positive audience response. "The realism of their performances seemed both meaningful and inspirational to all," boasted Ms. Dootson.

Administration keeps school in order

Authorities say . . .

'The Islanders have completed another fine year in the realm of athletics. Kelso won championships in football, cross country, golf, softball, and girls' track. We also had several participants achieve success in their individual sports such as wrestling and swimming. Overall, nearly 500 students took advantage of our athletic programs this year. We're proud of all of them for competing for the Blue and Gold.'

Seniors perform their hidden talents

'We all had a great time and I'm glad I could be a part of it. It was fun to do and they will have mass fun next year I thought it was funny.'

Carolyn Zwiefelhofer

The senior class began rehearsing for their assembly May 19. Mr. John Hunt, Mrs. Beth Niemi and Mrs. Karen Brockway helped organize and perfect the acts.

Finally, it came time to perform their hidden talents Tuesday, May 31. The theme involved "A day in the life of Paul." Paul Whitton began the show with his difficult psychological problems and he asked for advice from Dr. Jun (Junior Spain). The story tied together the rest of the acts.

Throughout the show the talented people included J. R. and the Bleeders, who rocked the night away. Later came Anthony Rojo and Korina Jameson playing their violins to "Yesterday" as Mary Haggard played the piano.

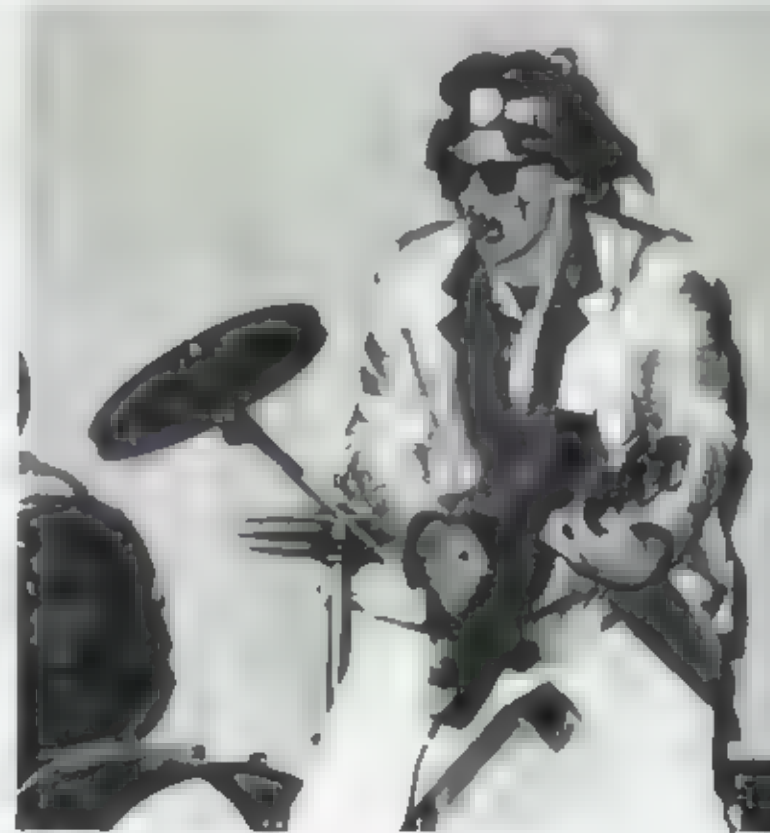

Other acts involved the Monster Mash, a dance by Becky Carroll and Jill Osterholm, Phil Donahue (Bill Elliott) and the enlarging machine with Jason Radcliffe, Tiffani Rawlins and Eric Jones, the Fish-n-Chip dancers including Terry Rhinehart, Marc Spink, Kirk Robbins, Donald Sears and Todd Wilson, the varsity rally squad performing the Highland fling one last time, Eric Richards playing the blues on guitar, Korina Jameson doing a solo, and finally the Jackson Five involving Carolyn Zwiefelhofer, Makani Coila, Erin McGhee, Amber Coburn and Tracy Williamson.

The show ended with all performers coming out as one group singing and dancing and having a great time. The assembly turned out to be a great success for students as well as parents.

1 Singing the blues with the help of the Breezers, Jason Radcliffe catches the audience. 2 Discussing whether or not it is time, Becky, Carol, Kim, Pleasant and Mary Haggard await anxiously. 3 Rocking out to the famous hippie music, Scott Schauer and Joe Robbins twang the guitar. 4 Strumming away, bluesman Eric Richards struts his stuff. 5 Asking for advice from Junior Spair, Paul Whitten tells his life story. 6 Rocking frantically, rocker Bill Elliott gets naughty. 7 Choreographing complex dance steps comes naturally for the Fish n' Chip dancers.

Graduation sparks energy, lightning

'The thunder and lightning were very appropriate for this class. They were both the thunder and the light.'

-Mrs. Kay Stern

'The Class of '88 is a thunder storm!'

-Tracy Williamson

---

'Yeah!'

-Archie Smith

---

Although storm clouds threatened, alumni, administration, family and friends gathered at Schroeder field Stadium on Monday, June 6 for the graduation of the class of 1988

After the Hilander Band concluded the processional and the National Anthem, DeAnne Crayne welcomed attendants. Valedictorian Denelle Reynolds spoke to her classmates recognizing the people who touched the lives of each senior and remained a special part of high school. Salutatorian Jay Worth followed up with a speech concerning fun times and shared memories of the graduates

Next, Paul Radich presented these speakers with Outstanding Senior Awards

Robert Simmons, Board of Education President, began awarding the diplomas. During this portion of the ceremony, a thunder storm began and white flashes of lightning tore through the sky, creating a dazzling effect. Graduates and on-lookers screamed and cheered as the rain poured down in buckets. At one point, the commencement was delayed until the rain lessened. All in all, the rain, thunder and lightning added to the evening and left a permanent memory of the class of nineteen hundred and eighty-eight

Seniors attend party in their honor

'It was a perfect ending to a perfect year.'

-Karen Malella

'It was an outrageous night to remember.'

—Eric Jones

Following commencement ceremonies, graduates proceeded to the traditional party sponsored by parents, PTSA and the seniors themselves.

Upon entering the party, seniors received their boarding pass revealing the theme: Follow the Sun.

The destination turned out to be the Kelso Elks. Ten p.m. symbolized time of arrival and four a.m.

symbolized time of return. The itinerary indicated simply to follow the sun. Decorations set a tropical scene with palm trees, coconuts and in center stage high on the ceiling glowed the sun.

Darren Day from KLYK provided entertainment for the evening while seniors danced with their friends. As the party progressed merchants and parents handed out donated door prizes.

Throughout the evening, students ate Mexican and Italian cuisine, consisting of tacos and pizza.

Many seniors chose to spend the evening in the game room playing foosball, ping pong and various video games. Gambling away chips in a good game of black jack attracted the most attention.

Students also gathered with close friends to take quick photos capturing the outback effect. Purchasing these photos allowed graduates to hold on to the evenings memories forever.

Co-chairpersons, Val Malella and Ruthanne Pleasant made sure food, drinks and decorations provided an appealing atmosphere for graduates and chaperones. Other parents and faculty members donated their time throughout the evening to make this a successful event.

As the trip drew to an end at four a.m., seniors began reminiscing with favorite friends at their final class activity.

Good morning juniors

The October 2, bulletin announced! "Attention all college bound juniors. Sign up now for the PSAT on October 22. Any juniors who are planning on attending college are advised to take the test."

The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test, a multiple choice test, measured verbal and mathematical responsibilities for college. The test took one hour and forty minutes and was divided into two sections.

Sixty-five verbal questions included antonyms, sentence completion, analogy and reading comprehension. Fifty math questions included symbolic logicals, arithmetic, algebra and geometric situations.

Juniors prepared by getting rest, eating a healthy breakfast and not stressing themselves.

The PSAT allowed juniors to set future goals by motivating them for a life after KHS.

What is a sophomore?

A sophomore, a person caught in a world of limbo between his freshman and junior years awaited many new experiences. Students merging from Coweeman Junior High and Huntington Junior High advanced into a challenging environment as their first year at Kelso High School began.

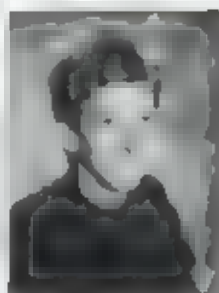

Somewhere midway through the first quarter of their sophomore year, pupils began to settle down, putting more importance on studies. Without good grades, most would be ineligible for all those sports and other school activities!

Halfway through this all important year, many of these young adults began to take a serious look at their futures. Some made changes in class plans, some worked even harder on their grades, and some just edged along as the year continued.

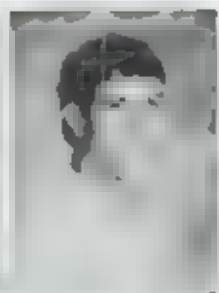

This time of limbo slowly disappeared as their sophomore year neared its end.

Colophon

Congratulations! You are an esteemed and proud owner of the 1987-88 Bagpipe. It was designed by an enthusiastic and innovative staff of 14. The Bagpipe was printed by Walsworth Publishing Company, Marceline, Missouri. Sales Representative was Harold Kaufman.

The cover was laminated for a more finished effect and was designed in 100% black and highlighted with 100% gold (900) halo SE885 special effect. The endsheets were also done in 100% black with 100% gold (900) typeface set in 72 point Brush.

After brainstorming, the staff chose the theme "Energy" for the book and carried it out on a divider, introduction, conclusion and class photo pages. The staff chose "Energy" because it makes a positive and very appropriate statement about our school and our student body. They attempted to capture some of the energy of high school life and project it throughout the book.

Erin McGhee designed the introduction, divider and conclusion pages. Copy within the introduction and conclusion pages was set in 24 point Brush. Grant Wishard created the artwork on these pages. Division copy was set in 36 point Helvetica with subtitles set in 72 point brush. The division pages were created with 100% black grid work featuring inset pictures and a special effect reverse halftone printing.

Copy within the layouts was set in 10 point Avant Garde; captions in 8 point, quotes in 12 point, headlines in 30 point type.

Senior class pictures were taken at Murl Art Studios, Cianci's and Mr. C's; junior and sophomore class pictures as well as various sports photos were also taken by Murl Art Studios. Also a special thanks to Bob Almos of Murl Art Studios for his continued support of our yearbook program.

Theme Energy 88

Energy It makes a bold statement. It moves. It creates action. It provokes changes. It's exciting. It's graphic. Using this criteria, we, the staff aimed to project energy through the book. My objective, as well as the objective of the staff, was to capture a portion of the "energy" we've experienced in high school and inject it onto the pages of the annual. One definition of the word "energy" is this: Capacity for action and accomplishment. We do have this capacity, we the school, we the class of 1988, we the yearbook staff and we the individuals.

My experience in yearbook production has been enlightening as well as rewarding. The staff was enjoyable to work with due to their innovative and enthusiastic ideas. Members insisted, as did I, on creating a yearbook most reflective of 1988, our school and the alumni.

Of course, I extend my appreciation to our adviser, Miss Sharron Cooper, for her advising, for helping us express our creativity within the boundaries of practicality and helping us budget our expensive help and expertise. I also thank the staff and appreciate their creative input, which helped shape our book. I enjoyed working with my co-editor, Karen Malella, and hope her experience was as enriching as my own.

Sincerely,
Erin McGhee, Co-editor

Acknowledgments

Another year has ended but with lasting memories. Working with my talented co-editor, Erin McGhee, we finished layouts and met deadlines, which were always an obstacle, and enlightened my year with ideas and humor to make this class enjoyable.

I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to Miss Sharron Cooper for being our friend as well as adviser, and to the entire 1988 yearbook staff for their cooperation and dedication. Never have I seen such a wide variety of personalities in one classroom.

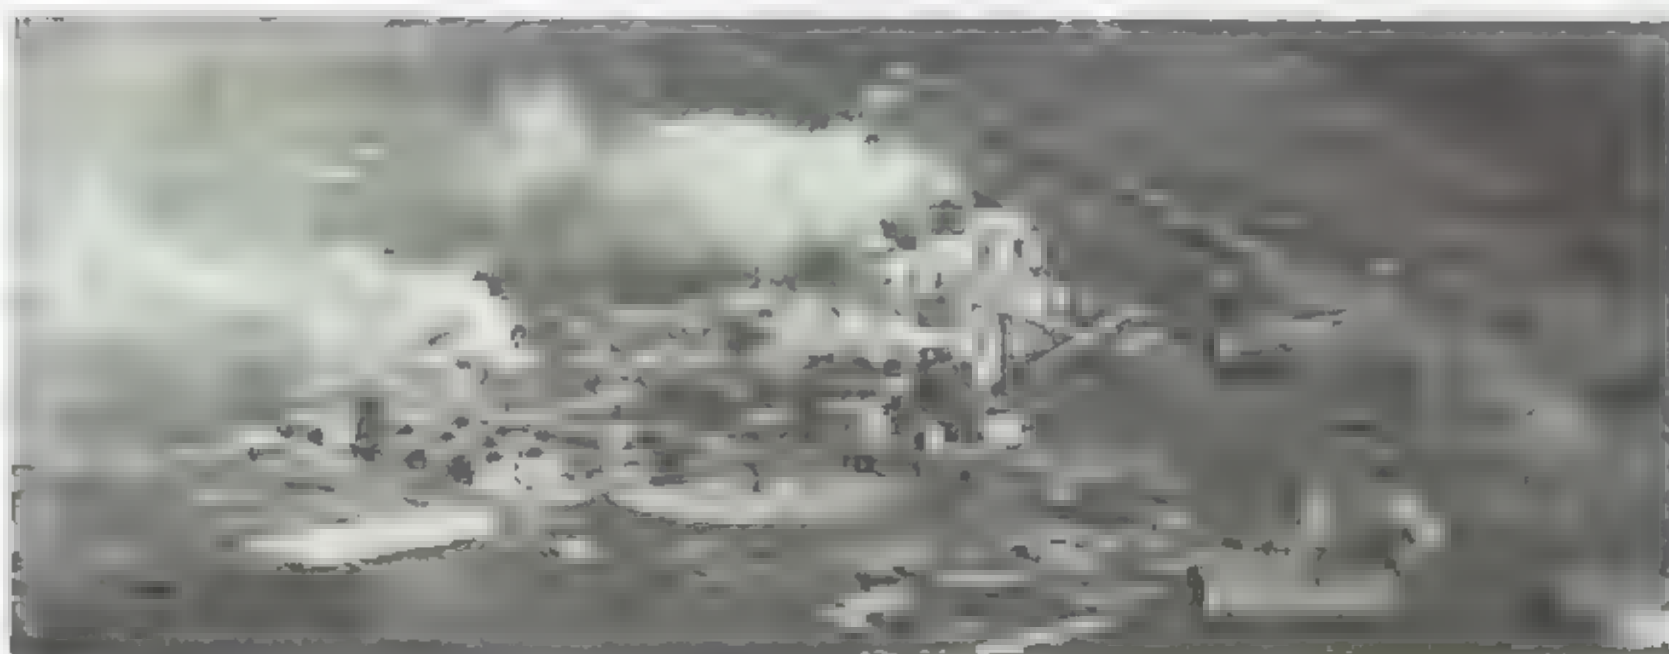

A special thanks to our dependable photographers Bill Eliot and Eric Jones. Working with them made the year run smoothly, not to mention the entertainment they supplied which helped us through the unbearable days.

I'd like to express my appreciation to Bob and Jeanette Almos for donating their time and photographs to enhance our book to its fullest and to the community for their continual support.

This year has been an enlightening one and I've had many positive experiences with this staff that will last forever. I'll never forget them.

Sincerely,
Karen Malella, Co-editor

We're planting trees by the millions!

This year every man, woman, and child in the nation will use the equivalent of a 100-foot tree — for lumber, plywood and other wood panels, paper, packaging, and many other products made from wood and wood fiber.

Fortunately, trees are one of the nation's renewable resources. To replace the trees we harvest, we're planting new forests at a record pace — more than 150 million trees annually.

LAKE SIDE INDUSTRIES

Longview-Kelso Division

P O Box 576 Longview, Washington 98632

The Longview-Kelso Division of Lakeside Industries established in 1976 is located on Tennant Way in the city of Longview

We take pride in completing paving projects on time and within budget. The experience, skills and attitudes of our asphalt specialists make a difference. We know how important it is to our customers that the job be done right, from design to completion. Satisfaction of the needs of our customers remains our number one goal.

Our construction services include:

- Free estimates and assistance in design on all projects
- Quality control and site testing
- Modern equipment and trucks to insure the best possible job results
- An established reputation for quality, integrity and value
- All work guaranteed to your satisfaction

The Longview-Kelso division is managed by Ted Pal-in. Randy Dec, our sales manager, will handle your design and estimating needs. Lakeside Industries is committed to this area and its growth. We welcome the opportunity to serve you.
